Headteacher's message

Dear Parents and Carers,

The weather has started to change this week and it has been more chilly and wet. Please ensure that your child has a waterproof coat in school as we do like the children to get outside for their breaks. We would also like to continue using the field regularly so please consider sending in a pair of wellies or outdoor shoes for your child to keep in school.

ATTENDANCE UPDATE

Good afternoon,

Is my child too ill for school? – NHS guidance for parents

As we head into the colder months, many parents face the daily dilemma: is my child too ill to attend school? The NHS has published a helpful guide to support families in making informed decisions about school attendance when children are unwell. The document outlines clear advice on common childhood illnesses such as coughs, colds, conjunctivitis, chickenpox, and even COVID-19. It explains when children should stay home and when they're safe to attend school, helping reduce unnecessary absences while keeping everyone safe.

For example, children with mild cold symptoms like a runny nose or sore throat can usually go to school, but those with a high temp should stay home until it subsides. The guidance also offers advice on managing anxiety-related symptoms and how schools can support children's wellbeing.

This resource is especially useful for parents, carers, and school staff working together to maintain healthy attendance and minimise the spread of illness. You can read the full NHS guidance here:

Magnets can rip holes in your child's gut

Magnets can be great fun.
But it's really dangerous
if a child swallows them.

They can attract to each other inside the body, cut off the blood supply and tear holes in the gut.

A child may need major surgery to remove them. So, keep them away from young children. And teach older children the risks.

If you suspect a child has swallowed magnets, get medical help straight away.

Update on the compromised weblink in Spy Dogs, Spy Pups and Spy Cat books

Following the recent alert regarding a weblink within these children's books no longer being a safe link as the URL inside the books directed readers to a third party weblink that had taken over the original site. The internet service provider, Nominet has confirmed that it has now suspended the site for breaching the Online Safety Act. The link is no longer valid and there is no on-going cause for concern for children accessing these books.
